After Sales

"I get my energy from providing the best service and quality to our customers. My work is only successful, if the customer is happy."

Our philosophy

Manufacturers of butterfly valves can be found all over the world. However, manufacturers with almost five decades' worth of experience and know-how are few and far between. Wouter Witzel is one of them. Ever since 1966 we have been internationally renowned for our industrial butterfly valves and actuators.

As a Dutch manufacturer of butterfly valves and actuators we offer a very wide standard product range. Besides that, being a producer enables us to react to specific customer wishes and come up with solutions or improvements for the many applications of valves used in the different markets. Our constant monitoring of market developments allows us to always respond quickly to new demands. In close consultation with our customers we translate state of the art technology into innovative solutions. These match both the desired application and all other requirements.

Since 2005 we have been a largely independent subsidiary of international valve producing company, AVK Group. Partly thanks to means made available by this concern we now possess even more specific technological know-how. Our drive for innovation and dedication to our product also explains the importance we attach to in-house engineering.

Being part of the AVK Group has allowed us to further optimise our international service. You can count on us even long after we have delivered our products to you. If you have any questions or problems we are always ready to listen and come up with effective solutions. We will really do whatever it takes to give you what you need to succeed.

Our products are mainly supplied to the markets:

- Sugar
- Water Treatment
- Shipbuilding
- Oil & Gas
- Desalination
- Building Services
- Power Stations
- District Cooling

Sugar industry

In this market Wouter Witzel has access to an elaborate network, including contacts with end users, consultants and contractors and further enlarged by agents, distributors and many international offices of our mother company AVK. We closely monitor developments in the sugar industry, respond to them and, most importantly, offer worldwide services.

The sugar industry requires a specific approach; experienced advisors with knowledge of the many applications and processes, fast and adequate service and, especially, a high degree of reliability of the worldwide products and materials used. They contribute to a successful formula.

Wouter Witzel is preferred supplier of butterfly valves for many sugar companies. Unique product features, dedicated staff as well as excellence in project management skills makes our products and service suitable for a wide scope of applications, like:

- Vacuum
- Steam
- Juice
